

Crowds Expected In Antioch For "77" Days

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 6, 7 and 8, are "77" days in Antioch, when merchants all over town will be offering special sales to customers. Not only will there be dozens of bargains to take advantage of, but the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, promoting the sale days, has furnished customers with special shopping bags to carry home their "loot."

8500 of the bags went out to residents of the area. However, if you take advantage of even half of the bargains offered, ranging from razor blades to mattresses, you'll need more than one shopping bag to carry them home.

Most of the bargains are 77c. A few stores with no merchandise in the 77c range, are offering bargains in higher-priced articles.

Crowds of shoppers in holiday bargain - hunting mood are expected to throng Antioch for the three-day sale. Come early and stay late. You can have lunch in

Jaycees Come Out With a Guide Booklet

The Jaycees came out with their handy and attractive booklet, "Lake Region 'Doings,'" just before Memorial Day.

The booklets are available free, at most resorts, drug stores, etc., in the Lake region, also at the Jaycees' Information Booth at the corner of Main and Lake streets in Antioch.

The booklet contains a rich fund of information, not only for the visitor to Antioch but for the year-around resident. Upcoming events are listed, including the meeting dates of many of the civic organizations. The ads are practically an index to any service or entertainment you may be seeking.

A full-page map of the Lake Region helps you to orient yourself in the area. Short articles throughout the booklet give information on fishing, the history of the Lake Region, and other matters of interest.

A new booklet will be available every two weeks, containing events for the future, any changes of schedule, such as churches, and new articles of interest.

The Jaycees information booth is open seven days a week throughout the summer.

Village Board Meeting Stormy As Completion Of Sewer Work Drags

Maybe it was the heat. Maybe it was the humidity. Whatever the reason, Tuesday night's meeting of the Village Board was an extremely unpleasant one, highlighted by complaints of nuisance from a resident living near the Regal China factory, reports of water turn-offs where residents had not paid bills (including one where a sick child lived), and finally building to a flurry of lost temper, accusations and counter-accusations.

The temper-losing was started off by Mayor Murrill Cunningham, who opened a Pandora's Box of bitter accusations when he stated that personal antagonism between Village Engineer David Miller and George Kennedy was hampering the completion of the village sewer project. Mr. Cunningham declared that the cause of the trouble should be brought out in the open and accused Mr. Miller of harboring ill feelings because he had been removed from work on the Mayor's Village Green subdivision.

Police Promise Crackdown On Drag Racers

Antioch police spent a strenuous and hazardous weekend chasing youthful drag-racers and speeders. After two especially hazardous chases, Ray Toft, chairman of the Police committee, and Police Chief Walter Scott announced there would be a clamp-down on reckless drivers, and all drag-racers would be fined.

A wild chase of a car driven by Robert Piffner, Box 446P, Antioch, resulted in near-tragedy when Piffner's car left the road and rolled over in a wooded area north of Antioch. Neither Piffner nor his passenger, George Bosnick, was hurt, but the car was demolished.

Harold Mason and Stephen Rycko of the Antioch Police went to the Village Green subdivision on reports that teen-agers were drag-racing there Sunday night. Piffner, in a '58 Ford, and Thomas

Hospital Sets Minimum Goal of $750,000

Dr. W. C. Petty, General Chairman of the Countryside Hospital Fund-raising Campaign, announced Friday that a minimum campaign goal of $750,000 has been established.

The funds necessary to build the 56-bed hospital will come from four sources, Dr. Petty said.

1. A public subscription solicitation.
2. Special gifts.
3. Industry in the area.

4. Community organizations. Petty said, "This goal is the minimum amount of money needed to proceed with Countryside. To make sure that we will have the planned hospital facilities, a million dollars is a more desirable target. The contributors will have the opportunity to pay their gift over a 3-year period."

Present at the conference along with Dr. Petty were:

Marshall R. Schroeder, Campaign Vice-Chairman; Co-chairmen Edmund F. Vos, representing Antioch Township; Raymond Ellis, representing Avon Township; John Romer, representing Lake Villa and Ted Emerson, representing Grant Township; Women's Activities Chairman: Mrs. Edith Elms, representing Antioch Township; Mrs. Honey Dalziel, representing Grant Township; Mrs. Virginia Belke, representing Lake Villa Township; Eugene Walaszek, Countryside Board President; B. J. Hooper, Special Gifts Chairman; Mrs. Jane Rundgren, Chairman of the Countryside Fund Raising Committee; Robert J. Ringa, Mrs. M. F. Groat, Members of the Fund Raising Committee and Chet Cozy, member of the Countryside Public Relations Committee.

At the present time the Co-chairmen along with the Vice and General chairmen are selecting 33 Area Chairmen for each principal population area in the four townships of Antioch, Avon, Grant and Lake Villa.

On Monday, June 3, the co-chairmen, Women's Activities chairman and Area chairmen met at 7:30 p.m. in the Countryside Hospital Campaign Headquarters, 100 So. Milwaukee Avenue, Lake Villa, to discuss the campaign organization and plan of action.

Area chairmen will then select captains for their areas and the captains, in turn, will select team members known as representatives so that the entire campaign team will total 1,000 volunteers. This team will contact each family in the four townships.

The Countryside Hospital Kick-off will be Sunday, July 14, 1963, and will consist of several special events and some special guests to be announced at a later date. The Kick-off will take place at Lehmann Park.

The actual solicitation of all the families of the area will begin on July 15. The

It is anticipated that the Countryside Hospital Campaign will be concluded by approximately October 1, 1963.

Diplomas Mark End Of High School For 138 Seniors

45% Make Plans To Enter College

A standing-room-only crowd watched the 138 members of the Class of '63 march up and receive their diplomas at the High School's athletic field Monday night, June 3.

The weather stayed fair and warm for the outdoor ceremonies, which started at 8 p.m. The High School Band, under the direction of Joseph Rush, played the Processional.

The Invocation was given by the Rev. Virgil H. Smith. The High School Senior Choir, under the direction of Della Mae Tronchuk, sang "Halls of Ivy" and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Warren Polley, Assistant Superintendent, introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Francis Geigle. Dr. Geigle warned the graduates that the road of life is not clearly marked with warning signs, like today's highways, and that when a mistake is made on life's road it can't be erased.

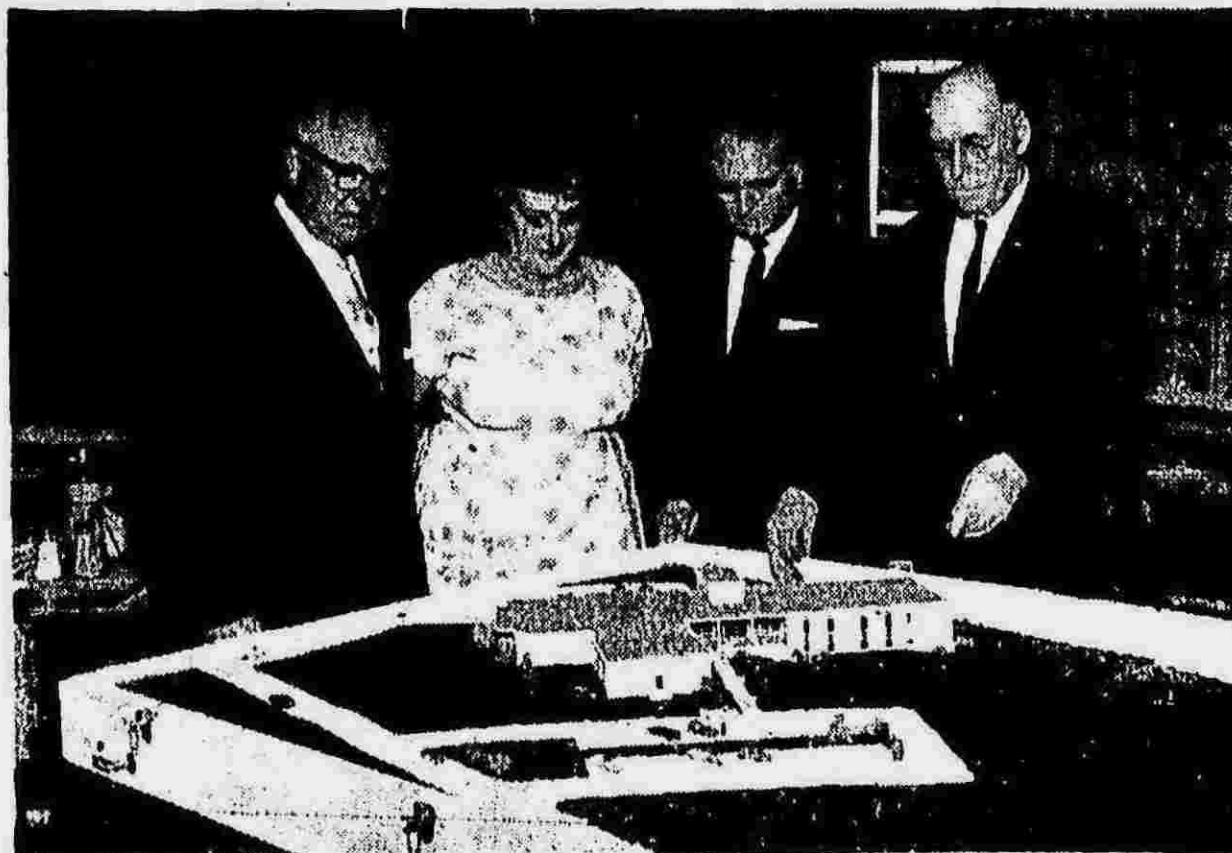

Superintendent Albert L. Dittman presented the members of the graduating class, and Robert Denman, President of the Board of Education, presented diplomas to the graduates.

Of the 138 students graduating from Antioch Township High School this year, 62, or 45% of the class plan to go on to college. Plans of the rest of the class include fifteen graduates into the labor market; 33 to secretarial work; 11 to trade schools; and 17 plan on entering the armed forces.

Of the college-bound students, the largest single group, nine students have chosen the University of Illinois; Western Illinois University is the choice of eight, and Northern Illinois University and Mount Mary College in Milwaukee are the choice of four each.

Thirty-three colleges throughout the country have been chosen by the balance of the students.

EDITORIAL

Have A Doughnut

Friday, June 7, the paper doughnuts of the Salvation Army will be on sale in our town.

The doughnut has become the symbol of the simple, practical help the Salvation Army extends to those who need it.

The Army has probably served millions of doughnuts to hungry victims of disaster, and the workers who were aiding them. And more millions on the battlefields of the world.

But through the 78 years of its existence, the Salvation Army has done much more than serve doughnuts. It has extended its helping hand to all who needed it, regardless of race or creed.

Through all those years, the Army has been practical. It has done what needed most to be done at the least cost, so that its charity dollars are stretched to meet as many needs as possible.

Through all those years, the Salvation Army has been kind. For this quality, most of all, we admire and love the dedicated men and women of the Army. Their consideration and compassionate concern for the troubled makes their help acceptable to the most disturbed.

By buying a tag on Doughnut Day, we can have a part in the good works of the Army.

By wearing the tag, we publicly express our approval of the Salvation Army and its work.

Your Governor Reports

by OTTO KERNER

Governors participate in dedications of grand and elaborate buildings, but of all such occasions—the most memorable one for me came last week when I helped dedicate a simple structure at the Kankakee State Boys Camp.

The building was built by the boys at the camp themselves and it stands as a monument to our society which says that these boys should be given the opportunity to rebuild their lives.

The forestry camp is one of 11 under the jurisdiction of the Illinois Youth Commission. The newly constructed facility constitutes almost the entire physical plant of the camp, and now serves as the boys' quarters.

The project was unique in that normally construction is left to others. However, in this case, it was considered appropriate to give the boys a chance to find the thrill in building from the ground up.

The prime goal was consonant with the mission of the Illinois Youth Commission—rehabilitation of young men.

Our hopes, I believe, were contained in one of the statements at the dedication: "We hope that what they have acquired in this project is not just the technique of installing a pipe or laying a floor, but the knack of working together for a common goal."

From practical experience, they have learned that if one floor tile is crooked, the rest will not fit in place; if one concrete block is askew, the entire structure is weakened.

"They have learned that no person can do the job alone." These are the axioms of society. We hope and pray that, with our help, these boys can return to society as useful citizens and contributors to the whole.

Along The Way

with ANNIE MAE

"In the good old summer time!" Yep, that's the time when plans burst forth from every corner. The newly re-organized C. of C. popped out with a sack full of bargains this week in the mall. The Jay Cees produced one of the finest Lake Region Directories, ever done hereabouts. And also opened their "Corner on Information" for all wayfarers. The Countryside Hospital fund drive forged ahead with an all out effort to put their "million dollar goal" over the top. In record time! The Lions Club will pamper their pet project (The Aqua Center) at a dance with a Mardi Gras atmosphere on June 15. Fast, but by no means least, a salute with parades, color, and a dance to our "fifty" year old Volunteer Fire Dept. on Saturday, June 28th.

Now if you've been sitting on your "back porch" wondering what to do with your free time, these active groups will more than welcome a helping hand to prove our community is the real "heartbeats" of the Lakes Region.

THE LATEST REPORT: If you were one of the ones who received your Personal Property, Real Estate and Quarterly Income Tax bills last Tuesday, you have just had a taste of weightlessness.

Wonder how many passersby noticed the flag mounted upside-down and backwards on Main St. Memorial Day. . . . The water that sent Everett Ostendahl scotching home from the ball game last week wasn't "heaven sent." Seems a water pipe in his Frosted Sno plant decided to "burst forth" on Memorial Day. . . . A certain "tap tender" apparently has more "on the rocks" than liquor.

BEHIND THE PRESS: Even the "upper crust" around here WORKS! Ye olde M. E. Howard (Shep) to those who endear him spent so much time at the "stitcher" this week. Dick Erickson's trying to sell him a "you know what" machine. . . . Lil Battista put her offspring Rosemary to work around here now, and it's a real delight to have two dark haired beauties with dispositions like they have. . . . Harold was missing for a few days last week and the type mice really took over.

THE LAST DROP: The "wheels" are having an epidemic. Bob Jensen was the victim of a lost one too! . . . Dotting the scene at the opening of the "Pool" Memorial Day were pretty Dolores Abderholden and her daughter in match "polka-dot" shifts. . . . and now for Mr. Stern.

Baseball may not be our game. Batting practice is not for a dame. However we will call your bluff. When it comes to Bridge and a cross-rough! Now I must answer a letter:

Dear Art Guild members so filled with fire, Whom I mistook for the "palette" of Masque and Lure: The errors I make are usually dandies. And drives even artists to poetic handies. My mistake was innocent, but no justification. So hereby I offer a chance for retaliation. A caricature of "Annie" has long been my wish. To head up this column, "My favorite dish."

I challenge you now, and all your evident abilities. To submit your sketches of this gal and her insane credibilities. The home town boy who really made good, Preston Bratude, M. D., visited us last weekend. His dynamic drive was apparent to all of us, but he really "shook up" those who played a game on the golf links with him when he drove these white spheres beyond the horizon.

MY OLE GRANDPAPPY USED TO SAY!

By the Rev. Fr. Edmond E. Hood

The true value of gold is determined by its weight, not by its polish.

Too many Christians never ask or expect any help from God until everything else fails.

How easy it is for a lazy man to prove that his luck is against him.

When any Christian begins to think that he is doing more for the Lord than other men, he has begun to say goodbye to Christ.

Courthouse Notebook

BY LOU DURKIN

A pair of farewell celebrations were undertaken for longtime courthouse personnel last week to herald their departure from the crumbling county building.

Gone from their familiar former deputy Probate Clerk, who is going to devote her time to paring some strokes from her golf score, and Bert McDermott, long time Circuit Court reporter whose tenure in the building makes him the senior payroll in point of service.

Cora's celebration was probably more exuberant since it started at the Parkway Restaurant and then moved to the home of former Probate Clerk Allen J. Nelson while McDermott was honored by county officials and barristers at the courthouse on his final day of service last Friday.

Now that Bert has retired perhaps Bob Vogel at the Lake County Museum of History can acquire one or two of the ancient Oliver typewriters on which the veteran reporter has pounded out his thousands of words of testimony over the years.

"The Oliver has been out of manufacture for many years, but Bert clung to the ancient machines with deep and abiding loyalty."

Unlike today's typewriter, the keys on the Oliver strike from right and left of the type slot and produced a highly readable imprint.

It's probably just a coincidence, but Circuit Judge Thomas J. Moran found himself at a steer roast in Kane County last week which was also attended by Republican leaders from DuPage County, DeKalb, McHenry and other nearby counties.

The coincidence stems from the fact that all of these counties are in the new 13 county Appellate Court district set up by the amendment to the judicial article of the state constitution.

Of course it's barely possible that Judge Moran knew that there would be politicians at the steer roast and these just might have been reasons political for his presence.

Dr. W. C. Petty, Rep. W. J. Murphy, State Superintendent of Parks James McMillen, William Brook, vice president of the Northern Illinois Conservation Club, and Richard Waters, president of the club, were among those present to dedicate the sign at Grass Lake School proclaiming the establishment of the Nature Laboratory at the school.

Dedication ceremonies were held at 1:30 p.m. last Friday (May 31). Short speeches by Rep. Murphy, Dr. Petty, Mr. McMillen, Mr. Brook, Mr. Waters and School Board secretary Charlotte Queen, expressed their pleasure at the successful establishment of the program.

The Outdoor Laboratory at Grass Lake school is the first of a planned series of such programs in local schools, initiated by the Northern Illinois Conservation Club. The late Edward Cooney was instrumental in bringing the plan to its present success at Grass Lake.

The school children have taken part in a tree-planting program at the school, in conjunction with the addition of conservation to the curriculum of the school. Plans are now in progress to solidify the program in other local schools.

Village Board...

Mr. Miller declared he had been happy to be removed, in which statement he was supported by Mr. Glenn. The Mayor then began the tempering by stating that he heard persistent rumors that the subdivision project was being financed by village funds, and informed this reporter that he wanted his statement that no village funds were going into Village Green subdivision publicized. In the haste that developed over the antagonism between Kennedy and Miller, each accused the other of incompetency, poor supervision, sloppy work and lack of honesty. H. Achem of Kennedy Construction joined the fray with a few well-chosen words reflecting on Mr. Miller's status as an engineer—ably answered by Mr. Miller with a few choice remarks on Mr. Achem's abilities as a contractor—and various members of the Village Board occasionally intervened with remarks supporting either side. The verbal duel finally ended when Mr. Miller, Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Achem were sent to an adjoining room to iron out a bill presented to the board by Kennedy Construction.

Earlier in the meeting, Fred Chapp, who lives across the street from the Regal China Co., had complained of noise, dust and flooding from the factory. The board tabled the complaint pending investigation.

Bids on a piece of village property were opened, and the property went to Kennedy Construction Co., in a move which was reportedly a legal formality to correct an error made when the Board sold Mr. Kennedy the property on which his building was erected. No money changed hands.

Clarence Shultis reported that there had been 12 water turn-offs, where water bills had not been paid. He reported that one case involved a sick child, another a relief client, and that Lloyd Murrie, town supervisor, refused to pay water bills for relief clients. The board ordered the water turn-offs continued, and voted to offer the relief client work for the village to pay the bill.

A letter of thanks from George Hawkins to the Antioch Fire Dept. was read. Mr. Hawkins thanked the firemen for their quick response to the call, their concern for his property and their efficiency.

Edgar Simonsen reported that roads in Oakwood Knolls were ready for a primer and sealer. Work on the roads was delayed until after a special meeting, to be held in the next two weeks, to hear a report from the treasurer on funds available for use on this and other projects.

Police Promise...

Kelly, Mortensen Hotel, Antioch, were racing. Kelly pulled over when so ordered by the police, but Piffner refused to stop. Mason and Rysko, in the squad car, chased him, at speeds between 80 and 90 mph, as he sped through the stop sign at Depot St., east on Depot to Deep Lake Road, through another stop sign, then north on Deep Lake Road, running the stop sign at North Ave. Piffner lost control of the car when he hit a gravel road north of the state line. Piffner has been charged with reckless driving, speeding, disregarding a police siren, and running three stop signs, and was released on $100 bond. Kelly was charged with drag racing and reckless driving. Both will appear in magistrate's court June 5.

Police Chief Walter Scott reported that he chased another youthful speeder for several miles through the heavy Friday night traffic before catching him. Robert J. Grant, Longmeadow Drive, Lindenhurst, 18 years old, was pursued by Scott from the village parking lot on Orchard St. west on Lake St. Grant ran the stop sign at Routes 59 and 173, south on 59 at speeds up to 85 mph, cutting in and out of traffic, ran the stop sign at 59 and Grass Lake Road, then west on Grass Lake Road, passing cars in No Passing zones. Grant finally pulled over near the end of a side road

B.A. Degree Received by Alice Smith

Miss Alice Smith won't be there when the Class of '63 of Valparaiso University receive their degrees. But she'll receive a degree of Bachelor of Arts, in absentia, from the University on that day (June 9).

Miss Smith won't be present because she's 95 years of age and doesn't care to travel much any more. She was notified in a letter from Paul E. Thune, Registrar, that the degree would be awarded to her.

Miss Smith earned the degree in the 1890's. With graduation only a short time away, she received a letter from the Superintendent of Schools of Lake County offering her the position of teacher of the fourth grade at the Central School in Waukegan. Miss Smith at first declined the offer, but finally left the University before graduation, on the urging of the superintendent.

A letter from the University says that, as far as they know, an earned degree has never been awarded by them in this manner before.

Miss Smith taught for many years in the Antioch schools. Many of her former pupils are now grandparents.

Lions Club Mardi Gras On June 15

The festive spirit of Mardi Gras will reign at the Lions Club big hoop-la, set for June 15 at the new George Kennedy Construction Co. building in Sequoit Acres in Antioch.

Dozens of prizes being donated by Antioch merchants will be auctioned off to the highest bidder. The public is invited, and proceeds go to support the Lions various charitable enterprises.

Lions Club Receives Melvin Jones Award

The Antioch Lions Club was awarded the Melvin Jones plaque at the District Breakfast on Sunday, June 2. The plaque is given to clubs having no drops, other than by death or transfer, from Dec. 1, 1962 through April 30, 1963.

The award was accepted for the Antioch Lions by Maurice Loven. About one-third of the clubs throughout the state received the awards.

Yellow lines on highways are placed there for the driver's protection, says the Chicago Motor Club. Single yellow lines mean no passing when they are in your lane. A double yellow line indicates a no-passing zone for drivers on both sides of the highway. Never cross a yellow line; it always means the road ahead is a no-passing zone.

Skaters Join In Parade

The Lake Region Roller Rink and 25 of their skaters participated in the Memorial Day Parades at Antioch and Fox Lake. After returning to the rink everyone received a free pass and enjoyed a period of skating.

Memorial Day marked the beginning of the new skating schedule of the Lake Region Roller Rink. Many special events are being planned for skaters for this period.

On Thursday evening, June 20, the Lake Region Roller Rink is having a 1959 Dime Party. The admission for this event will be one 1959 Dime plus the usual rental if you do not have your own skates.

License Plate Colors For 1964 Announced

Springfield, Ill.—White lettering and numerals on a purple background will be the color combination for Illinois' 1964 motor vehicle license plates, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter has announced.

Two Illinois colleges, both well over 100 years old, will be recognized by the use of those colors, Mr. Carpenter said. They are McKendree College at Lebanon, the oldest institution of higher education in the state, and Rockford College. McKendree was founded in 1828 and Rockford in 1847.

The colors will offer a sharp contrast to this year's green and yellow plates and will not conflict with the combinations scheduled for use by other states, Secretary Carpenter said.

With a minor exception, the combination is also high on the list recommended by the University of Illinois engineers who made a thorough study of license plates purposes three years ago. Purple is not one of the colors on the list, but the engineers have agreed that it is an acceptable substitute for blue, making the combination the third on the list, Mr. Carpenter said.

Jehovah's Witnesses Hold Convention

Doorbells by the thousands are ringing every day throughout Milwaukee. Much of this is due to the activity of the Antioch Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses who are sharing in what Watchtower Convention officials have described as Milwaukee's greatest room hunt. The reason for this search, according to Robert Willet, the presiding minister of the congregation, is to find enough sleeping accommodations for an expected 50,000 delegates who will attend a regional convention at the Milwaukee County Stadium, June 30 through July 7.

"The Milwaukee gathering," Willet stated, "is the first in a series of around-the-world conventions. The closing day at the County Stadium will be the opening day for the second in the series to be held in New York's Yankee Stadium. Other gatherings will then follow in such faraway places as Delhi, India; Rangoon, Burma; Bangkok, Thailand; Seoul, Korea; Hong Kong and Melbourne, Australia. The final convention will be held in the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, California, Sept. 1 through 8. That means 71 days of assemblies from start to finish. So we have the privilege of starting the series off on June 30.

Danger In Viewing Of Sun Eclipse

A partial eclipse of the sun is expected in this part of the United States on Saturday afternoon, July 20, 1963. Geographically, Illinois is in the highly dangerous viewing area and dark glasses or photographic film will NOT provide adequate eye protection. There are no filters available through which this eclipse can be viewed safely in Illinois. According to the Chicago Ophthalmological Society in a statement issued at the request of the Adler Planetarium, damage will be done by any direct viewing.

Children are most susceptible to eye damage from burns although adults can be harmed also. A similar eclipse in 1959 affected the Northwestern area of the United States. In Seattle alone, 59 persons, mostly children, suffered serious retinal burns even though they thought they had adequate viewing protection. These people will never be able to read again.

The only sure protection against eye damage is indirect viewing. Information on methods of indirect viewing and instructions for preparation of a simple, but effective Sunscope, can be secured from the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 220 South State Street, Chicago. Teachers and nurses can help prevent permanent eye damage by instructing children before school is out in June and by encouraging them to instruct other members of their families in proper viewing.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS

Press Man Punch
The Newspaper has a punch, it has circulation, it strikes home, it is something everyone reads. Newspaper advertising is a wise investment.

These thoughts have been expressed by many men who are in a position to know whereof they speak.

Newspaper advertising is rated by many the highest of all conventional advertising media.

Newspaper advertising brings to the consumer the item you want to sell, the one you feel you can brag about. Some years ago, a general manager of a large New York department store in commenting on advertising media was talking about the good points and limitations of other media. He wound up by saying he found other media more limited in their effect in comparison to cost than the newspapers.

Tactful
Mrs. Brown sent Joey off to a birthday party, with explicit instructions NOT to ask for a second helping of cake. When Joey returned she asked him, "Now you didn't ask for another piece of cake, did you?"
"Well," Joey fidgeted, "I asked her to write out the recipe for you, and she gave me a great big second helping."

Thirty Years Wed—Fourteen Children

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haley celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary with an open house at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Dean Waite, on June 1, the wedding date, and High Mass at St. Peter's Church.

The Haleys have much to celebrate. They have fourteen children and six grandchildren. Two of the children are married—Thomas

The Haleys, who live on Trevor Road, Rt. 3, Antioch, moved to Antioch from Chicago fourteen years ago.

Mr. Haley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haley, Sr., of Chicago, were present to help celebrate the occasion. Mrs. Haley's father, Martin Quinn of Memphis, Tenn., was unable to attend.

The Mass was said by Mrs. Haley's brother, Monsignor John S. Quinn of Chicago. After Mass, the family breakfasted at The Angels.

Lower Rates For NI Gas Customers

Northern Illinois Gas Company on May 29 filed revised rate schedules with the Illinois Commerce Commission which will cut the gas heating bills of some 575,000 customers in northern Illinois by about $1,000,000 annually. The new rates are expected to become effective July 1.

The new rate schedules will lower the charges for all gas over 150 therms per month used by residential heating customers and by small commercial and general customers from 8.9 cents per therm to 8.7 cents. The new rates will benefit heating customers in their months of highest use and in cold winters, such as the last. They will also serve to promote greater usage of gas.

Legion Auxiliary News

At the last meeting in May of the Antioch American Legion Auxiliary, the Chaplain, Mrs. Lucy Himmels, conducted a short, but reverent Memorial Service.

The nominating committee was selected with Mrs. Burt Anderson, chairman, Mrs. John L. Horan, Mrs. Earl Horton, Mrs. Alex Hoffman, and Mrs. Lucy Himmels as the other members. Mrs. James McMillen was the hostess, with her committee, for this evening.

On poppy day, Mrs. John L. Horan, chairman, and some of the unit members, sold nearly 1300 poppies, and received $229.00. It costs the hospitalized war veteran 7c to make a poppy, and all the money the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary receives when they sell the poppies goes to those hospitalized veterans and to the rehabilitation work at veterans' hospitals.

On May 25th, Mrs. Joseph Horton, Illinois Girl's State Chairman, and Miss Shirley Reichenbach, the Girl's State, chosen by the Antioch Township High School Faculty, attended the 10th District Illinois Girl's State. Seventeen girls from Auxiliary units in Lake County will be sent to MacMurray College in Jacksonville, Ill., for one week in June, to learn the various forms of government on the local, state, and national levels. The Tea was held in the Libertyville Legion Home. The Libertyville Girl's State, who had done to Girl's State last year, gave a talk to acquaint these girls with the many programs at Girl's State.

Artists Wanted By Red Cross

Local artists are wanted to create new material on a volunteer basis for the Red Cross "art bank." The American Red Cross is planning to initiate an art clip service based on a pooling of art work from chapters, area offices, and national headquarters. The service is designed to provide a wide selection of art work for use in newsletters, pamphlets, flyers, posters, annual reports, and other material intended for internal and external distribution.

Your Red Cross needs your talent to help portray the Red Cross Story. Credit will be given to the artists for all illustrations used in the clip service. All art work submitted will be carefully protected and returned in good condition. For further information call your Red Cross Chapter house, ON 2-4044.

Post Office Asks For Law Change

Present laws governing parcel post rates have created a "distressing paradox" for the Postal Service, raising the threat of a "radical increase" in rates that "would substantially damage the millions of individuals" who depend on parcel post service, Postmaster General J. Edward Day told Congress on May 22.

Mr. Day explained the paradox as one which requires the Postal Service to operate the parcel post system so it hurts the people it was originally designed to help, particularly those in rural and other areas of less population density.

As the situation now stands he must certify to the Treasury that the Post Office has met the legal requirements that parcel post revenues and cost balance within 4 per cent or has requested ICC for rate increases that will insure that balance. Without this certification, the Department cannot draw on its 1964 fiscal appropriation. Postal technicians have estimated any new increase would have to be 25 per cent on the average to meet the break-even requirement, and the increase on some parcels would range up to about 40 per cent.

Experience and study show rate increases bring about volume losses. Such volume losses, in turn, bring about a need for further increases, creating a vicious circle which cannot be solved simply by boosting rates. Under these circumstances, the Postmaster General pointed out that he could not make a valid certificate to Treasury.

The legislation endorsed by Mr. Day would give authority for parcel post rate setting exclusively to Congress and would eliminate the certificate.

Steve Young Reads Tale of Past in Indian Relic Collection

By Pearl Kapell

Steve Young started an Indian arrow collection when he was six years old. Not even, intending to start a collection. His father had a cigar box full of arrows and Steve, like any six-year-old boy, wanted some of them. His father told him to go out in the field and find his own. He did.

Twenty-six years later, Steve has a collection of Indian relics for which the Smithsonian Institution has offered him $25,000.00 (he refused it); relics of people of the past from many countries in the world; a rock collection that fills a big tin trunk; and a broad knowledge of archaeology, anthropology, and paleontology. What started as an aimless collection, has developed into a well-planned study. Steve hopes to map the lives and movements of the American Indian in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin finding where they lived and fought, their movements and the reasons behind them.

Hunting for relics is like a treasure hunt, Steve says. Sometimes they're found in the most unlikely places. Like the handsome snow shoes, a product of the Chipewya tribe. The webbing is made of deer gut. The snowshoes are in perfect condition. They were found in the wall of an old house which was torn down in Round Lake. They had apparently been stuck behind a staircase and, when a wall was built there, just left. The finder, knowing Steve, gave them to him.

A valuable clay storage pot, made by a member of the Zuni tribe, was found in a cave. Steve bought it for $5.00. It was worth much more.

Many of Steve's treasures have been given to him by friends who know of his collection. He has relics from many lands, but 90% of his collection, he says, comes from this area.

Some of his treasures from other countries include: a clay pottery water jar from Peru, made in the shape of a bat; the jar was probably made about 1100 A.D. Some of the pottery of that time, Steve says, came out as highly polished as a bowling ball, without glazing. The secret of the process which produced the polished finish has never been discovered.

Another secret lost to modern artisans is that of the Old Copper Culture of a group of Wisconsin Indians. They produced a copper as hard as steel. When struck, it rang like a bell.

A lamp from the ruins of Pompeii; an African witch doctor's dancing mask; two clay tablets from Samaria, covered with cuneiform writing (one is a shopkeeper's daily account, one a personal diary); a death mask made of volcanic stone, probably used as a grave marker, from South America, are some of the relics of former civilizations in other lands that he has.

But his basic passion is relics of the American Indian, which tell the story of the lives of these people, how they lived and died.

He has over 30,000 Indian arrow heads in his collection now. Many are made from semi-precious stones. He has arrow heads made of moonstone, mahogany obsidian, black obsidian, jasper, various quartzes. One beautiful, transparent arrow is of crystal quartz. One, of petrified wood, he salvaged when bulldozers dug through the hill south of Clarendon at Channel Lake, when Route 173 was built.

Many of the arrows can be classified by the use for which they were intended, or the tribe that made them. Fish arrows have a single barb and serrated edges. The Hopewell Indians specialized in arrows with serrated edges.

The patient work that went into the tools the Indians used is clearly evident. Most of them were laboriously chipped from stone. A Squaw's Axe from England has a hole through the solid stone, worn by patiently wearing the stone away with a hollow reed full of sand. After the hole was worn out, the Indians sometimes fitted the axe on to a young sapling, and twisted the growing tree around the axe to form a handle. Not assembly-line

STEVE WEARS A RARE matched set of appliqued deerhide coat and pants, and holds another treasured decorated moosehide coat and snowshoes which are part of his Indian collection.

A STONE AXE, a death mask, a woven container, a water jug, a spear and an African witch doctor's dancing mask are a few of Steve Young's treasured relics.

efficiency, but their patience produced a tool that has lasted through the centuries.

Pieces of sandstone were used for sharpening their needles and awls.

Steve has a flat piece of sandstone with grooves worn in it from the patient sharpening of the tools.

Among other practical tools that tell the story of the Indian's way of life are a small, triangular piece of stone used to measure the spaces between the strands of their fish nets; a maul, used for pounding tent pegs; stones used for grinding corn into meal; a small, cup-shaped circular piece of catlinite, with a hole through the center, which was used for sucking infected material from boils, etc., after lancing; small hand-axes (Steve says the smallest he ever heard of was about 1 1/2 inches long); war clubs; various spears; including one rare ceremonial spear; grooved axes, made of granite (grooves are worn in the top); a rare fluted axe (both the top and the bottom are grooved).

Just as painstakingly made are the clothes, decorations, storage pots, etc., used by the Indians. A pot woven of untreated grass is so well made it would hold water. There are moccasins from various tribes in the collection, each with the distinctive bead work that tells what tribe the wearer belonged to.

A deerskin jacket in the collection is decorated with porcupine quills, split and dyed in brilliant colors, and beads, sewn in a colorful pattern. The treasure of his collection, though, as far as clothing, is a moose hide coat, pants and moccasins in a matching set. They were obviously made after the white man reached this country, for the delicate applique pattern is sewn with thread the Indian must have procured from the trading post. The pattern is sewn through only the first layer of hide, so that no work shows on the reverse side. The set, in perfect condition, is priceless.

As the mute tools tell the story of the Indians' lives, so do their clothes. One of the jackets has a bullet hole in the sleeve. It goes only through one side, so it can be surmised that a white man's bullet lodged in the wearer's arm.

Some of the coats, gauntlets, etc., are trimmed with cone-shaped bits of tin. The tin, Steve says, was cut in strips from big tin cups that were part of the Army equipment. Probably the cups were taken from slaughtered soldiers. One Indian jacket has Army buttons, obviously taken from one of the first Army jackets.

The smell of tobacco still lingers in a bowl of one of the many pipes Steve has in his collection, reminding us that the Indians were the first users of tobacco.

That there was communication and travel in early days is proven by some of the articles Steve has in his collection. An ungrooved hand axe found in one of the Solomon Islands is identical to ones found here. A ceremonial bannerstone found west of Channel Lake is made of Pennsylvania slate.

You can't study the history of the American Indian without being drawn into an interest in the whole early history of man, the earth's history, told in the rocks and stones and fossils, the numerous buried artifacts of early civilizations. Steve has found. He reads all the books he can find on the subjects, and bemoans the ignorance of people who throw away old books containing information and relics that a collector would cherish. He wishes people who have such things would get in touch with him if they're in doubt as to anyone's wanting them.

Steve has displayed portions of his collection at the Lake County Museum of History at various times, and has conducted tours of the Museum. He belongs to the Wisconsin Archaeological Society, the Central States Archaeological Society, and is an associate member of the New York Natural History Museum.

He and his family spend most of their vacations looking for additions to the collection. He's hunted relics in all but seventeen of the states. The Lake County and Southern Wisconsin area, he says, are fertile fields for Indian relics. Most people are most co-operative about letting him look for relics when he sees a likely spot. A few, for various reasons, object.

What started as a hobby has developed into a consuming interest that takes up most of Steve's spare time (he works at Johnson Motors in Waukegan). His wife has been drawn into the search, and most of the spare room in their house and garage is taken up to store the numerous articles he's collected. He's acquired a sound background of knowledge in the various related subjects that are bound up in his search. The search for Indian relics

Danger! Ill. Bell Joins In Warning

The Illinois Society for Prevention of Blindness warns those who intend to watch the July 20 eclipse of the sun that if they don't take proper precaution, they may permanently impair their vision.

Children are particularly vulnerable. In cooperation with the Society, Illinois Bell Telephone has included in its June issue of "Telebriefs," a miniature newspaper mailed with all telephone bills, the Society's instructions on how to make a sunscope so readers can watch the eclipse safely.

Constructing a sunscope is simple, involving an ordinary carton, cut in the proper manner and with a few bits of paper and aluminum foil added.

Watching the partial (more than three-fourths) eclipse of the sun, Saturday, July 20, 3:26 to 5:45 p.m. CDT, through colored glasses won't help. Neither will photographic negatives nor welder's glasses, the Society points out.

Proper precaution is essential because during an eclipse, there is a twilight effect. No pain is felt looking directly into the sun, but the sun's rays focus on the inside of the eye and may burn the retina, which could result in the permanent loss of sight.

"Cuss Boxes" Raise Easter Seal Funds

A pair of counter canisters converted into "Cuss Boxes" have boosted the revenue on the 1963 Easter Seal Campaign, drive by $34.07 according to Lou Durkin, chairman of the fund drive for the Lake County Easter Seal Society.

The conversion was made by Mickey Carrison, of the Barrister Lounge in Waukegan, who reported, "The use of the Easter Seal canisters as cuss boxes has not only enabled us to collect more for this worthy cause, but it has raised the moral and conversational level of the Barrister immeasurably."

Carrison explained that a slip of the tongue cost the culprit a donation to the Easter Seal campaign in the counter canisters that featured a youngster on crutches with the brave salutation, "Hello, world. I think I'm going to make it."

The canisters at the Barrister are among more than 200 scattered throughout the county to augment the revenue from the mail solicitation conducted by Easter Seal Society, according to Durkin. "Some of the canisters have been picked up and they have added $127.00 to the campaign collection," Durkin reported, adding, "We hope those who still have the canisters will adopt some gimmick to stimulate contributions because the drive is falling short of its goal."

Discontent is the first move toward progress of the individual or the nation—Bridgeport Leader.

has lead naturally to collecting fossil stones, and various rocks and minerals that tell the earth's story.

Some day, Steve says, his collection will probably will go to a museum. I asked him if he wasn't tempted by the offer of $25,000.00. No more, he says, than if someone had offered him $23,000 for his right arm.

In the meantime, Steve doesn't have to worry much about theft of his valuable collection. The articles would be worthless for resale, for they're known to all collectors.

Those present were Nancy Gerber, Mrs. Pat Simonson and family, Mrs. Tena Gerber and Arlene Letting, all from Lake Villa; from Round Lake Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burtner and family and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Young; from East Troy, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eiters and Evelyn Ann; and Mrs. Albert Healey and Jodie Lynn; also from Round Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Burtner.

BOATING WITH BOWMAN

COMMERCIAL BOATING FASCINATING TO PLEASURE BOATMEN

By Hank Bowman (Courtesy Sequoit Harbor)

Have you ever talked to the crew of a skipjack oyster dredge, watched a lobsterman haul in his traps, seen a shrimp trawler or a fisherman dumping an otter trawl or witnessed the flying hooks aboard a Pacific Coast tuna boat?

Do you know that sponge divers still harvest their living from lush undersea jungles off the coast of Florida and that commercial cat fishermen work the muddy rivers of mid-America?

Have you ever been aboard a harbor tug, a tanker or a fire boat? Do you know the smell of green coffee beans and burlap? Have you watched a pile driver in action, seen bridges or dams being built, cables or pipe laid?

No matter where you operate your boat you are almost certain to encounter some commercial boating activity. If you are interested in a new exciting phase of pleasure boating, don't pass by work craft. Get to know their activities and meet their crews.

I have patrolled with harbor police, ridden on garbage scows and bunker boats and watched ship salvage crews in action. I've stopped at light ships and dropped off magazines, books and newspapers. The next time I was given a pail of lobsters.

I have learned that on a cold winter day or a hot summer evening there is always a cup of hot coffee or a cold drink on any harbor tug.

Commercial boatmen usually welcome visits from pleasure boatmen. If you show respect for their working hours and their equipment, you'll find they'll meet you more than halfway and open up a whole new vista. They will be as curious about your runabout or cruiser as you are about their vessel. And, don't forget they might want to come aboard your pleasure craft and even try their hand at the helm.

Only one thing bothers the commercial boatman, and that is the pleasure boat operator's seeming lack of concern or knowledge about Rules of the Road and the special lights and day markers commercial craft display to indicate the kind of work in which they are engaged. Every boatman is expected to be familiar with these identifying lights and marks as well as with sound signals. The Rules of the Road vary depending upon the particular waters on which you are operating. Western River Rules, Inland Rules or those applying to special situations on your own local waters are not necessarily the same. Your nearest Coast Guard Headquarters or Marine Inspection Office of the Coast Guard will be glad to supply you with a free copy of the Pilot Rules.

Tigers Take 1st in Little League Ball

Action at the Little League park last week saw the Tigers beating the Cubs, the Giants over the Sox, and the Yankees over the Dodgers. The win by the Tigers moved them into sole possession of first place in the White Division while the Giant victory gave them a share of 1st place with the Cubs in the Gray division.

The Tigers shut out the Cubs 6 to 0 Tuesday as they collected 6 runs on 6 hits. In another game held Friday, Rodney Miller hit a home run and led the Giants to a 12 to 8 victory over the Sox.

In a game played Thursday, the Yankees topped the Dodgers in another slugfest, 12 to 8. Most of the runs were scored in the first inning as the Dodgers led off with 4 in their half with a bases-loaded homer by Jerry Erdmann.

The Yankees came back in the second half of the inning and batted around, scoring 7 runs before the Dodgers managed to retire them. Joey Badame collected 2 hits in the inning.

The Giants got two more runs in the second inning and completed their scoring with 3 tallies in the 5th. The Yankees managed to squeeze one run across in the 3rd inning and had a big rally going in the final stanza.

With one run in and 2 men on base, Badame took over on base. Badame took over on base. Badame took over on base.

'Stop Stillman' Plea of Wilmot Race Fans

"Stop Stillman," is the cry heard from the fans at the Kenosha County Speedway in Wilmot, as the 1962 Track Champion made it six in a row in winning the 25 lap feature race Saturday night. Stillman also set fast time and a new track record in the 10 lap heat race. His time of 53.76 mph was just slightly faster than the 52.01 mph record set by Jr. Dodd of Waukegan on June 30, 1962. Stillman now holds three track records at the Kenosha County track. Others are the 50 lap and 75 lap distances.

The warm night brought out an overflowing grandstand crowd of about 3300 fans who were evenly divided between support of the Wisconsin and Illinois drivers. At the start of the night's racing, Wisconsin drivers had scored 9 wins for the season to 8 wins for Illinois drivers. At the end of the night the fans were about shouted out but happy to have a tie at 13 each for the drivers of both states. Next Saturday will be a real battle as the boys try to break the tie and gain advantage for their fans.

In the first heat for 10 laps, Bob Norman of Trevor, driving a Chevy powered modified, pushed his way into the lead on the 8th lap ahead of Greg Umick of Kenosha to take the win in a time of 3:18.99.

The second 10 lap heat saw faster action as Roder Otto of Burlington rung up his second win of the season over Jr. Dodd of Waukegan and Matt Krohn of Lake Geneva. Otto's speed was 52.19 mph. In the third heat, Jim Bozzaman of Waukegan had a tough time getting into the lead over George Uttef of Kenosha but once there stayed in front to outlast even Stillman, who couldn't get through the traffic from his back starting spot. This must have made him angry because as the 4th heat started and he found himself again at the back he made a hard charge to the front and found holes in some spots but in others made holes where none were and came out of the first turn onto the backstretch in the lead. It was in this race that he set the new record.

The 15 lap semi proved a surprise in thrills as Willie Lyskowski of Spring Grove lost a wheel, then flipped over. As he rolled and came back on his wheel he hit so hard that the force tore the body structure off the frame and Willie sat there like a man in a bathtub that has had the wind blow his house away. All cars behind him were able to dodge the mishap and the race was stopped. Willie had only a small cut on his chin and after picking up his cash award for the 1st roll over of the night, loudly proclaimed that he would be back next Saturday night.

Stillman lined up again in the back of the feature as

Cookin'?

By Harry H. Stern

WHEN YOU FEEL SMALL AND UNIMPORTANT, REMEMBER THE GERM. TOO SMALL TO BE SEEN BUT HIS WORK IS PLINY BIG.

A Testotoler is a Guy Who Adds up His Golf Score.

And that brings up the subject of golf, students. Here is a gentleman's game, for gentlemen, by gentlemen (you can play too, Annie honey). A man can spend a pleasant day on the course, in company with congenial friends, enjoying the fresh air, the countryside and the convivial banter while getting a spoonful of exercise. Worries and cares are forgotten as they wend their merry way, from tee to fairway, from fairway to green, from green to cup; and repeated in like manner, 17 times. That's what the book says.

With this in mind, a four-some composed of Fe Weiss, Milt Brozik, Earl Tanyan and Ed (Golden Roach) Sorenson repair to a selected golf course, tee up and immediately begin to pound each other into the ground. They needle one another; make funny noises when one of them is addressing the ball, and in general inflict a painful case of ulcers upon themselves. One of 'em gets so mad he quits counting his strokes when his game is off, and the winner makes life unbearable for the losers until the next round is played the following week and a new winner emerges.

So-o-o, last week Ed won by 13 strokes and he let fly with both barrels, unmercifully and with gusto. (You shouldn't do it, Ed!) A crown of thorns would be as a pillow of down, by comparison. And now, gentle reader, here is the sad (ha! ha! ha! ha! ha!) part. Ed didn't play golf this week. Nobody showed up. 1000! HAH!

Never give an alcoholic black coffee or you'll wind up with a wide-awake drunk.

FISHING REPORT—The news is monotonously the same all over. Everything is hitting everywhere. To quote Charlie (Mushy) Haling: even the city guys who don't know how to fish are catching 'em.

Hank Lubkenan caught a mess of the biggest bluegills he's seen in a long time, on Lake Catfish. Even little old me caught some of same on the Decoration day weekend. Ain't telling where. They're catching big north-

Jr. Dodd and Ray Darnell took off from the front row. They were hotly pursued by Gordy Gorman of Libertyville and Fran Seaman of Milwaukee. In the meantime Stillman was picking up positions as Jack Frost spun out as trouble befell the cars of Ted Schuster and Jim Bozzaman. Finally as he got up to fourth, Gorman went into the lead and it wasn't until the traffic slowed him that Stillman and his Al Chevy powered car shot by. Once in the clear he moved away and was never threatened for the remainder of the race. Gorman finished second; Jr. Dodd, third; Ray Darnell, fourth; and Ken Heiden of Barrington, fifth.

Roger Hagg made it two features out of three by winning the Spectator Car feature. He was also the winner of a 10 lap race. John Anderlee was victor in the other race. Last week's winner, Dick Aissen of McHenry, just couldn't get going but will try next week.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS 7 THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1962

Tryouts for Little League Thursday

Gene Dotson, President of the Antioch Little League announced this week that tryouts for the Babe Ruth League will be held Thursday, June 6, at the Antioch High School field.

"We expect to field two teams," Dotson said, "and boys 13, 14 and 15 years of age are eligible." Time for the tryouts has been set for 6:15.

On Petite Lake, Ed Clamens' Resort reports they are on a hitting rampage like in the good old days—almost. Ben Shostak, at Pine Lodge, same lake, concurs; only his "boys" have been bringing in nice catches of bluegills. Not big, but many.

We hate to admit this, but there are some fishergals who make their husbands look a little like on the inexperienced side. (Do you fish, Annie, honey?) like for instance, on a recent trout-catching trip, good-looking Annie Waters caught 36 (count 'em) of 'em and in fact, had to stop fishing to stay "legal."

"Our Leader" didn't tell me how many he caught, but I'll bet it was less than three dozen. Dick, old boy, when the good wife suggested fishing the streams you should have listened to her. You know now that's where they are—not in the pot-holes.

Marian Tiderman did the same to her man on a trip up north; only in Walleyes. Fishing was not good and she wound up with only four—but that was the top score, and that's that.

Any time you begin to think you're so smart, just remember that even a run down clock is right twice each day.

If you don't see Bill Brook around it's because he isn't. He's up in the Lake of the Woods area—something about collateral. Up there, Bill?

And Milt, (Walleye) Brozik snuk off up north for a fishing (?) trip. Looks like he manufactured himself a legitimate excuse for not showing up for golf, Ed.

A guy misses the silent films. It was kinda nice to see a woman open her mouth—and no sound come out.

Take due notice thereof and govern yourself accordingly.

Spills & Thrills as Cars Crash at Speedway

Tom Ketchum of Crystal Lake took a sensational spill at the finish line in Waukegan Speedway's Saturday night feature race for Sportsman stock cars. His car crashed the safety barrier and came down on starter Frank Pinter's flags, just missing the starter himself.

Gino Wagner won the spill-packed event with Jim Luther of Kenosha second and Bobby Jackson of Zion home third.

Bob Dugan, popular Waukegan driver, took the honors in the late-model feature race in 4:42.73. Second was Dan Kopshe, Milwaukee; third, Len Kanne, Kenosha.

Heats went to Jim Gossman, Roger Regeth and Bob Jackson in Sportsman division and the late-model Trophy dash was won by Dugan. Jack Esther of Zion had a wild roll-over during the third Sportsman heat just between Number one and Number two corners. His car jammed the field running close behind him. The race re-started Indian file with Jackson the winner.

Dugan came on to take the late model Trophy dash in a terrific drive with Dan Kopshe pressing him early and then dropping back. Eddie Jones picked up the challenge in his newly acquired Chevrolet, E-3.

Johnny Reimer set a new track record in the third Modified heat when he won in 2:47.91. The old record for Waukegan Speedway was 2:48.14 set last year.

Dennis Burgan beat out Gino Wagner of Kenosha to take the Sportsman feature race in 4:01.11.

Heat winners were: Lawrence, 1st Modified; Gorman, 2nd Modified; Reimer, 3rd Modified; Cossman, 1st Sportsman; Ken Heiden, No. 5 heat; Eichmann, semi-feature, Modified.

Roger Elis of Milwaukee crashed head on into the north retaining wall in the semi-feature of Modifieds and Gordon Gorman finished the event running on only three wheels. In the second Modified heat, Larsen got a black flag for dumping fuel on the track and Jack Frost of Zion blew his engine on the final lap.

Time of the race was 7:18.27.

Decker has given two exciting demonstrations of how to shortened version of the quarter-mile speed bowl.

The track features up and said to be the most difficult race course in the Midwest.

Amateur drivers, 21 years old, who have a legal driver's license, are eligible. No car should be valued at more

Visual Science

Because Mrs. Frances Burke's fourth grade class at Prince of Peace School in Lake Villa are studying about air being used as a power, what makes airplanes go up, etc., the entire school was treated to seeing a helicopter in action.

Marine Lt. Col. Sam Oliver, father of Elizabeth, pupil in the class piloted a helicopter to the school from Glenview Naval Air Station. Accompanying him were Capt. Jack T. Zych and Sgt. J. J. Orr.

The whirlybird flew directly over the children, who were outside waiting for its arrival, about 9:35 a.m., and then hovered over the school grounds about 10 minutes, generating quite a bit of wind, before it settled down in the field. The first to reach the flying windmill were Mrs. Oliver and five of her children, Elizabeth 10, Steven 9, Sloan 8, Mary 6, and Anne 4. This was the first time they had seen Col.
Oliver land the helicopter.

He had flown over their home at other times. In a few minutes, all the school children were lined up single file to get a close look at the aircraft and ask questions. Father David Lynch, Mother Mary Amobalis, the Sisters and teachers, members of the Lake Villa fire department and local residents all were eager to get a close look, too, and ask questions. The boys seemed the most interested and asked the most questions. Mrs.
Oliver said now she knows how the astronauts feel (all that publicity). After being there almost an hour the egg beater took off again for Glenview. The children seemed to enjoy seeing the aircraft that can go straight up and down and sideways.

Several automobiles were lined up on Grand Avenue to see what the excitement was all about.

A bit about the Olivers.
The Col. has been with the Marines almost 20 years.
They lived in Texas before moving to Lake Villa last September. They live on Deep Lake Road. They have been married about 12 years and have seven children. Besides the ones in school they have a son, Ted, almost 2, and a baby daughter, Amy.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS
THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1963

Just three weeks old.
Col. Oliver's mother, Mrs.
A. S. Oliver has been visiting here since the first of May.
She lives in Monroe, La. She was anxious to see her new granddaughter, and other grandchildren. She also was at school to see her son guide the helicopter.

I don't know how much tired blood there is in my social circles, but I do know there's plenty of tired talk.

Revolutionary Center-Balance Body with low-slung, bigger-capacity 56-bushel saddle tank gives the "300" a low center of gravity and equal-poled weight for unmatched stability and maneuverability.

18 on-the-go controls, right at your fingertips! Adjust cylinder speed, concave spacing, table and reel heights to match changing crop conditions without even slowing down. Get more of the crop and get it cleaner.

New MF 300 converts quickly, easily, to harvest grains, beans or corn. MF 22 Corn Head centers between drive wheels so you can open a field from either direction without interfering with the row on either side.
